

Work Experience

Freelance

Dec 2014 - Current

After leaving Blue Tuna I have been working as a freelance graphic and web designer. My main focus has been on branding, creating online and print ready promotional material as well as designing and building websites for a variety of clients across different industries.

Blue Tuna - Web Designer

May 2013 - Dec 2014

I was employed by video production specialists Blue Tuna to rebrand their company identity. This included reworking their logo, updating typefaces and colour palettes, as well as designing/building individual websites to represent the different services offered by the group. I also carried out ad hoc duties such as creating content for social media and project managing video shoots.

Lasgo - Graphic Designer

October 2010 - May 2013

I joined this established distributor of CDs, DVDs and vinyl to create promotional material such as B2B catalogues and newsletters for the sales team. During my time here I also redesigned their company website and set up a bespoke email marketing system.
